

Program Worksheet - Writing for Career and Community Minor

To be effective across Laurier programs, students must be able to express themselves through their writing in a variety of formats. In addition, the employment context is such that the link between academic writing and the writing skills required for different career paths must be more explicitly bridged through curriculum and practice. Students must be able to demonstrate knowledge, analytical skills and professionalism through their writing. Moreover, at the core of the Faculty of Arts is the desire to provide students with the capacity and confidence to make a difference in their communities, whether as individuals or through social enterprises. The “Writing for Career and Community” (WCC) Minor is designed both to enhance the applied elements of existing programming in Arts and also to provide students with an additional range of competencies.

Notes:

1. Students may take up to 1.0 credit from the Brantford campus' Professional Writing Minor, which will count toward the Writing for Career and Community Minor.
2. Open to students graduating with an Honours degree only.
3. EN369, EN370, and EN371 may not be double counted for both this minor and the minor in Creative Writing.
